Jon Hall and Subjective Wellbeing part 1

Posted on 7 October 2011

I'm not sure how it is in other agencies but luckily in the ABS we have the opportunity to attend some very interesting seminar.

Recently, we attended a seminar on Subjective Wellbeing by Jon Hall. This is a growing area and personally I find it one of the more interesting and engaging areas when looking at societal progress. Jon was leading the OECD's Global Project on Measuring the Progress of Societies since it began in 2005. Recently, he returned to work at the ABS. To read more click here

Return to Home

Comments

No Comments Found

Subject:

Jon Hall and Subjective Wellbeing part 1

Name:

Email:

Add Comment:

What is MAP 2.0 all About?

Search

Search this Blog

Recent Entries

The consultation continues...

Our last regular blog post

Blog contributions

Recent Comments

Towards Q2: Tomorrow&

'Things that matter

'Things that matter

Archive

November 2011 (4)

October 2011 (13)

September 2011 (91)

August 2011 (6)

July 2011 (1)

April 2011 (3)

© Australian Bureau of Statistics 2011 All Rights Reserved | Privacy Policy | Disclamer and Terms of Use | Contact Us